Telegraphic despatches received here on the th inst. appounce that three fires were raging in Tokio in the early hours of the morning. The first, which originated on lot 1, Kobiki-cho San-chome, was in full force about 2 to 4 a.m. when it was got under, having consumed 57 houses and partly destroyed 9 others. About the same time a fire was reported in Hei Ki Kickt of Kaigun Sho (Naval Department) but for tunately was speedily controlled and prevented from spreading. The third fire was reported at about 2 s.m. in Tango-machi, Akasaka, and three bouses were consumed before the flames were

This mot being sufficient to satisfy the doctor as to the cause of death, he applied for permission to hold a post mortem examination, which having been granted it was soon found that the weapon had pierced the heart, and that death must have been instantaneous. On inquiry, the police found that the murdered man was named Futaro Kuhachiro, a fireman belonging to the Yokohama Fire Brigade, and well known to the foreign residents here; he being the son Rokunoske. From further particulars obtained apparently the murder had been planned, for we hear that about S p.m. a messenger went to the fire brigade compound and stated that a man named Chilkane wished Futaro Kuhachire to go to his house, and he, having no suspicion of any kind, went at once. About 4 p.m. another man came to the brigade premises and said some one ought to go to Kuhachiro's assistance as he expooted there would be trouble. Unfortunately however, no one attended to this request and about an hour and a half afterwards the man was brought to the police station dead. Detectives soon obtained information of the murderer, who had fled. He proved to be a kind of head man of a lot of gamblers well known to the police. The cause of the crime was a woman, the wife of Knhachiro. She, it appears, formerly lived with a member of this gambling club, but left him, and was married to the unfortunate feeling, but the murderer, strange to say, is not the man with whom she formerly lived, but the

Colonel Frederic Brine, R.E., contributes to the Straits Times the following results of his observations in Penang and Acheen, under date of the 4th March :-

In 46 hours from leaving the roads of Singapore in the B. L steamer Pemba, Capt. Potts. we were at anchor off the jetty at Penang. One centleman who sat in the back seats of the English Church complained bitterly of the rats, and I noticed that the two front seats were vulgarly covered a red colour. When will people give up everlastingly striving for front seats? should also mention that I was very sorry to see the Union Jack flying over the fort in charge of the police, which was no longer a saluting Battery, and to hear the title of Lieut.-Governor had been reduced to "Resident Councillor." This of course is foolishly done to suit the Colonial Secretary. On leaving the hotel, I was also sorry that I had not had time to visit the Prye River Docks and to dine or breakfast with the Lieut. Governor; they were both across the harbour in Province Wellesley-and I had known the latter, Major McNair, before. After waiting an honr for Mr. Tolson, one of the directors of the Prye Dooks, and De Large & Co., who own five steamers and are the contractors till 1884 for supplying the Dutch Army and Navy in the kingdom of Acheen with cattle, &c., we at 6 on the evening of the 27th February sailed in the Kongsee, Lapt. Public attention is called to the following extract from the Hongkong Postal Guide, Paragraph-60:-"The Post Office declines all responsibility for unregistered Letters containing Bank Notes &c., and, where Registration has been neglected. WILL MAKE NO ENQUIRIES into alleged losses of such letters." Bexes of letters are sometimes received at the Post Office not sealed, that is to say, the box is fastened with sealing war, but there is no impression of a seal.

The attention of hoxholders is called to the necessity of carefully scaling such boxes with some recognisable seal, and of sending a chitbook or receipt with them. The omission of the latter procention leaves a doubt as to whether the contents of the box ever reached the Post Office: the omission of the former, as to whether next of them might not have been shstracted for the sake of the Postage Stamps. Is the best medium for Advertising among the No responsibility can be accepted by the Post Office for erroneous replies to verbal enquiries, It has been established upwards of Twenty or to notes addressed to subordinate officers. LETTERS FOR THE UNITED STATES BY SAILING When it is lemired to forward letters to the United States by a sailing ship which is not notified as corrving a mail, it is only necessary to post the letters in the ordinary way, marked with the name of the ship, and propaid 10 cents The "Trade Report" has a large circulation per bulf ounce as usual. The Post Office than undertakes the duty of obtaining notice of departure and despatching the correspondence. It is requested that the letters be posted if possible at least one day before the date fixed for sailing

> TEA MUSTERS. Persons who send Musters of Tes through the Post in Tins are requested to have them made flat or square instead of round, as it is impossible to pack round tins securely in the mail bags. It is believed that the tes will travel more safely in flat time, which are not so liable as round ones to be bulged in. 4 by 8 by 15 inches is suggested as a good size. The time should not have sharp corners.

EXTRACTS. RESIGNATION. Reneath the sheltering form hall long ago The violet lay faded, And by the brook-marge now the aster glow, By flame leaf maples shaded; Withered the grass and flowers, fruit fallen, branch

But who will care! From these dark clouds, this droary woodland scone With headless baste recoding, l'oward skies that ever smile, bowers ever groon, The hirds their flight are speeding ; Only the rook's harsh cry sounds on the shivering air --But who will care?

Where joyous youth once leved and dreamed, and aye Some high ambition cherished There lie but sadness and despair to-day, And hopes forever perished; Fires now within the heart leaves only ashes there

But who will care? Friends fall—à fickle throng—and plume their flight Toward fortune's happier greeting; Their flattering tones are still, a gruesome sprite Aloue is aye repeating Despair, despair! and yet again despair |

Who care! Not I, foregoth! Beside the brook A snowy shroud is falling ; Upon the leadess bough th' uncanny rock Coaseth his dreary calling; And weary hearts oblivion's peace and rest shall share:

and the appointment of Professor of political arena of practical politics dates from 1857, when he unsuccessfully contested Southwark. After other vain attempts at Parliamentary honours he was finally returned for Brighton in 1865.

The manner in which he first introduced himself to the electors of Brighton is characteristic of his courageous spirit and his cheerful indifference to his affliction. He travelled down to Brighton one afternoon alone and unattended, and when he reached his hotel he heard there was a political meeting in the town that evening. He asked the waiter after dinner to accompany him thither, and started forth under the man's guidance. He found the meeting occupied in selecting candidates for the approaching election, and without a moment's hesitation, he rose and said that he did not wish to disturb the evening, but begged to appounce that he intended to offer himself as a candidate. This bold address naturally took every one by surprise, but his candidature was adopted with acclamation, and he subsequently represented Brighton for nearly ten years.

Among Mr. Fawcott's Brighton constituents was a fussy little tradesman whose assiduous attentions became rather annisance. This person was very proud of being seen walking about with the member, and was pos des bottes. Mr. Fawcett was one night accustomed to waylay him whenever he got dining with a small party of political friends, a chance. Mr. Fawcett good-naturedly sub- including the junior member for Birmingham mitted to the infliction, but he could not resist, on one occasion, perpetrating a practical joke. He was proceeding along requested them to leave. Mr. Fawcett, being the King's-road with a friend, when his ubiquitous admirer came up to him as usual. A highly carburetted plate, approaching nearly to steel, will become oxidised less readily than one containing very little carbon. On the other hand, phosphorus, sulphur, manganese, silicon, and magnesium favour oxidation, and consequently corrosion; and, as these subregard to the second cause, certain portions of the boiler are, more than others, subject Mr. Fawcett frequently visits Salisbury, to rapid changes of temperature.
